5 Eric Harmon

Clemson offensive guard Eric Harmon has played many games with pain over the last three years, but he has never missed a start. He could become Clemson's all-time iron man before he graduates. Mickey Plyler profiles another fine offensive lineman who has migrated South from New Jersey.

7 David Treadwell

How many players in the NFL did not play high school football? Clemson has a graduate with the Denver Broncos who can make that claim. David Treadwell, who works in the off-season for Dow Chemical, is one of the great stories of the NFL this season. Tim Bourret recreates this success story.

37 Shrine Bowl

Each December high school all-stars from North Carolina and South Carolina meet in Charlotte in a game that benefits more than just players, coaches and fans.

49 Poll History

College football is the most popular of the intercollegiate sports and it just might be due to its championship format. It is the only sport that is not decided by a playoff. Susan Hiller examines the history of the AP Poll and its affect on the game.

52 Senior Spotlights

With a streak of 41 consecutive Top 20 rankings, three bowl wins and three ACC Championships, this has been one of the most successful classes in Clemson history. Here is some information on some contributors to that success.

62 Hall of Famers

Each year the Clemson athletic department honors many of its graduates with selection to the Clemson Hall of Fame. Four Clemson greats in basketball, football and administration will join the hall today in halftime ceremonies.

77 Support Staff

One of the most under-publicized, but needed groups associated with the Clemson program are the student managers and trainers. Many of them put in longer days than the players and coaches. Eric Young and Heather Czeczok take us through a typical day.

78 Tiger All-Stars

Here is a look at some all-star performers within the Clemson sports program.

110 The Last Word

Today marks the 50th anniversary of Clemson's first bowl team, the 1939 squad that played in the 1940 Cotton Bowl. Bob Bradley takes us back 50 years to review that landmark season.

Clemson Seniors Among ACC Best

Clemson's senior class will make its final appearance in Memorial Stadium this afternoon when Clemson takes on Wake Forest. The group of 19 seniors is closing out one of the top careers in ACC and Clemson history. A look at the list of winningest ACC classes shows that this group of seniors can become the winningest class in ACC history if the Tigers win each of their last three regular season games plus a bowl game. This class has a record of 34-8-2 heading into the Wake Forest game and the record for most wins by an ACC class is 37.

This class can get as high as .8125 in terms of winning percentage and that would be the sixth highest winning percentage in ACC history. As far as Clemson history is concerned, a .8125 winning percentage would rank fifth.

The record for most wins over ACC teams by a class is 24 by the Clemson class of 1984. William Perry and company had a 24-2 record against ACC teams, a .923 winning percentage. With two more ACC games left on the schedule, this year's seniors can reach a tie for third in terms of wins over ACC teams in a career. This class is 20-5-1 against the ACC, a .788 mark. A 22-5-1 mark would tie the Clemson class of 1985 as far as victory total is concerned. Maryland's 1985 group had a 23-2 record against the ACC.

This class also holds many other noteworthy honors. It holds the Clemson record for the most weeks ranked in the AP Top 20 with 46 (including a streak of 41 in a row between December 9, 1986 and October 17, 1989). The class has three undisputed ACC championships to tie a conference record and still has a shot at another this year if Clemson gets some help from other teams in the conference. It also already has three final AP top 20 rankings to its credit and three bowl victories. It certainly appears they will have a shot to become the first Clemson class to win four straight bowl games.

Clemson's senior class includes: Gary Cooper (WR, Ambridge, PA); Chip Davis (WR, Evans, GA); Bruce Dixon (TE, West Union, SC); Rodney Fletcher (WR, Barnesville, GA); Wayne Harps (OLB, Griffin, GA); Chris Hart (DB, Miami, FL); Joe Henderson (TB, Freehold, NJ); Joe Cobb (SN, Greenville, SC); James Lott (FS, Kannapolis, NC); Wesley McFadden (FB, Chester, SC); Dorian Mariable (LB, Spartanburg, SC); Otis Moore (DT, Augusta, GA); Chris Morocco (GR, Athens, GA); Carey Palmer (SS, Anderson, SC); Hank Phillips (C, Spruce Pine, NC); Jeff Taylor (OLB, Seneca, SC); Vince Taylor (LB, Clearwater, FL); Ron Wessinger (OG, Chapin, SC); Fernandez West (WR, Cornelia, GA).

Gardocki in Top 15 in Field Goals and Punting

Is there another kicker in America as versatile as Clemson's Chris Gardocki? He can be considered a candidate for All-American as a punter or kicker.

Last year Gardocki would have ranked in the top 20 in the nation in both categories, but he was two punt attempts shy of qualifying for the national statistics. Heading into the Wake Forest game the sophomore is fifth in the nation in field goals per game with a 2.0 figure as he has made 16 of 21 so far this season. In terms of punting he has upped his average to 42.97 the 13th best average in the nation. And, for good measure, he is also 18th in the country in scoring with 8.875 points per game. That also leads the ACC.

Gardocki had a great day in the wind and the win over N.C. State. The native of Stone Mountain, GA averaged 45.7 yards per punt in the gusty wind, had three punts inside the 20, a 58-yard punt, and also booted three field goals in four attempts. He hit the right upright from 40 yards out into a 15 mile per hour wind for his only miss of the day. He also had three touchbacks on kickoffs, including one after a five-yard penalty was assessed against Clemson.

Incredible as it may seem, Chris Gardocki is already third in Clemson history in career field goals with 35. He moved ahead of Bob Paulling into third place Saturday with his three field goals. Gardocki now trails only David Treadwell (47) and Obed Ariri (63). His three field goal game marked the 12th time in his 20-game career that he had more than one field goal. The Clemson record for multiple field goal games is 17, by Obed Ariri.

Wake Forest Update

For the second week in a row Clemson will face a team that gains more yards via the air than the ground. Wake Forest averages 231 passing yards a game and 142.6 a game on the ground, figures that were very rare just 10 years ago. But, in this day and age of the five-step drop and run-and-shoot offenses, it is quite common.

Wingback Ricky Proehl is the major reason

Hammond keyed an aggressive Tiger defense that had a record 19 quarterback pressures against N.C. State.

Wake Forest has more passing yards than rushing this season. The senior wide out led the ACC in touchdown receptions last year with 10 and he has six more this year. Proehl has 39 catches for 640 yards for the season and has also picked up 55 yards rushing in just 10 carries. Last year Proehl was the only opposing wide receiver to catch a pair of touchdown passes against Clemson.

Phil Barnhill, a native of Washington, DC, is the starting quarterback. Barnhill had seen very limited action under Mike Elkins over the last two seasons, but this year he has thrown 247 of Wake Forest's 251 passes. The former Carroll High School triple jumper who was a member of his church choir, has thrown for 1617 yards and nine touchdowns. The fine runner has 145 yards rushing and has been sacked just six times all year. His best game might have been against N.C. State when he picked up 321 yards in the air.

Lamont Scales, a red-shirt freshman from Ridgeway, Virginia, is the top tackler on the team with 88 stops. He has 34 tackles more than any other Wake Forest player and is among the ACC leaders in that category. He also has a pair of interceptions to lead the team. The Belin brothers hold down the number two and three slots on the tackle chart. Warren is a starting linebacker who has made 34 stops, while Levern has 47 tackles. Both are juniors and have been keys to the Wake Forest defense for two years. Warren had seven tackles against Clemson last year.

Hammond Has Outstanding Game

Vance Hammond had eight tackles, a tackle for loss, and a team best four quarterback pressures in the victory over N.C. State in one of his best performances in his three-year career. The junior from Spartanburg, SC, was the key man in Clemson's ability to get to N.C. State quarterback Shane Montgomery.

Although Clemson did not have a sack in the 56 Wolfpack pass attempts, Clemson did record 19 quarterback pressures and Montgomery was hit 20 times during the game while attempting to pass. The 19 quarterback pressures represent a single game high mark for the stat in the last three seasons. Levon Kirkland and Wayne Simmons also had three pressures in Clemson's 20-point win.

O'Neal Freshman All-America Candidate

Does anyone out there select a national freshman Defensive Player of the Year? Clemson has a legitimate candidate in free safety Robert O'Neal. Even though the native of Georgia has started just one game, he has averaged over 40 plays per game and leads the ACC in interceptions with five. He is currently 18th in the nation in that category and already has broken Terry Kinard's freshman interception record.

O'Neal had another interception against N.C. State and returned it nine yards, giving him 86 yards in interception returns this season. He also has 38 tackles and seven passes broken up this year, and both of those figures exceed Terry Kinard's entire freshman year figures (1979).

In fact, O'Neal's freshman figures already exceed those of Clemson's three defensive backs currently in the NFL, Kinard with the Giants, Donnell Woolford with the Chicago Bears and Delton Hall with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Eric Harmon

By Mickey Plyler

Clemson football players and coaches spend hours every week watching film to prepare for the opponent.

Clemson's starting right guard, Eric Harmon, might enjoy watching film more than any college football player in the nation. But if the truth be known, the films Harmon really enjoys watching are motion pictures.

"My first couple of years at Clemson, Doug Thomas (wide receiver) and I used to watch a different movie almost every night," says Harmon. "It was just a way of relaxing after a tough practice or a big game. I thought the invention of the VCR was one of the greatest things to ever happen."

Harmon and his teammates also go to the movie theatre the Friday night before every game as a means of relaxation. "The team goes to the movies to get away from all of the pregame hype. Also, it is a way to keep the team together on the night before a game," says Harmon who was named ACC Player-of-the-Week for the Maryland game this season when he had an 82 percent grade and nine knockdown blocks.

One would think a 6-2, 260-pound offensive guard would enjoy the blood and guts of a Sylvester Stallonne flick or the adventure-action of a war movie. This is not the case for Harmon. "I love comedies. We rent "The Three Stooges" and "The Little Rascals" all of the time. I would rather watch a good comedy but, my favorite actor is Clint Eastwood. I like his style and voice."

Harmon could break John Phillips's career knockdown block record next year.

Harmon, who also likes fishing, says these leisure activities are necessary to keep away from the pressure of college athletics. "You have to be so emotionally ready to play on Saturday that sometimes you need something to unwind. I enjoy spending time with the other linemen off of the field. In fact, Chris Morocco takes Hank Phillips and me out to eat every Thursday night. We do these things because we are so close, and to relax before the big game."

The veteran of the offensive line knows what it is like to be in a big game. Harmon, who has played in the last two games with a leg injury, has now started 32 straight games at offensive guard. This is the second longest active streak on the Clemson team, second only to James Lott, who has started 34 in a row.

Harmon played 1400 snaps over his freshman and sophomore seasons and recorded 111 knockdown blocks. Through the Georgia Tech game, he led Tiger offensive linemen in knockdown blocks with 55, including a career high of 13 against Virginia. His 166 career knockdown blocks rank as a threat to reaching John Phillips' record of 245 for a career.

The junior from Camden, NJ, attributes several things to his early success and stability. "First, I think I picked up the system fairly fast. That helped me to get an opportunity so early because then I got a lot of repetitions in practice and with those repetitions came confidence. Also, I guess I have been lucky by not getting seriously injured. But, you can never think about injuries. All you can do is pray. On the field, your emotion has to carry you through injuries."

However, Harmon is not always the fired-up figure who Clemson fans see waving his arms around following a big play or an opponent penalty. Instead, he is a laid back, mild-mannered person.

"I just try to be consistent in everything I do. I hardly ever change and when I do change, it is a moderate change," says Harmon, who also could become the first Clemson player to start 48 games in a career. If Clemson can reach a bowl game this year and next, and if Harmon can stay healthy, he could break Rodney Williams' record for career starts, as Williams had 44 starts at quarterback for four seasons. The record for career starts by an offensive lineman is 36, held by Jeff Bak, Joe Bostic, and Jeff Bostic.

Harmon has been a starter since game one his freshman year. He was a key to Clemson's 35-10 win over Penn State.

"Eric is one of the most dependable people I know. He is one of my favorite people to be around," says center Hank Phillips. "On the field, he makes my job so much easier. On our double teams, all I have to do is stand our man up and Eric finishes him off. He is a leader on the field because he makes a lot of our offensive line calls at the line of scrimmage. He is a natural offensive lineman."

Unlike Phillips, who has moved around the offensive line positions, Harmon says he is more comfortable at the right guard position that he has held down for three years. "I am right-handed and it is much easier for me to play on the right side. I find it much easier to get my right hip out of the pulling position than my left. So, I feel more at home at right guard," says Harmon who was a high school teammate of fellow offensive lineman Kelvin Hankins.

Only a junior, you can bet Eric Harmon will watch many more films and review his technique over the next year and a half. Although he might rather be watching the Three Stooges, he knows studying football films will help him make his opposition look like the Three Stooges.

David Treadwell

By Tim Bourret

It takes a significant distraction to break former Clemson placekicker David Treadwell's level of concentration. Just ask Vince Dooley, who saw the current Denver Bronco kick game-winning last-second field goals against his Georgia Bulldogs in consecutive seasons (1986 and 1987). Treadwell had four other contests in which he won or tied games for Clemson inside the last three minutes of play. Now he is the top field goal kicker in the NFL on a percentage basis.

But, in September of this year, his concentration was finally broken. It took a former Tiger teammate to do it.

"I went out for my first field goal attempt at Cleveland and Michael Dean (Perry) was yelling at me from the time I came on to the field," said Treadwell, who played with Perry at Clemson for four seasons. "He kept saying 'you're going to miss it Treadwell, miss it for me Treadwell'.

"At first I just kept my head down and did not acknowledge him. Finally, I looked up at him and put my index finger up to my mouth and said 'shhh', to try to quiet him. But he kept at it.

"Well, I made the field goal and we looked at each other and just started smiling.

"That was one of the most unusual circumstances of my life, because Michael Dean was one of the guys you remember celebrating with after last second wins at Clemson. Now he was rooting against me. But, it was good natured and just part of the game."

Unusual circumstances seem to follow David Treadwell. We are talking about a guy who did not play high school football. Now he is in the NFL.

"I played high school soccer and came to Clemson because of its reputation in engineering," said Treadwell, who has his engineering degree from Clemson and was a three-time Academic All-ACC choice. "My dad convinced me to try out for the football team at Clemson because I used to kick the football around with him for the fun of it."

After a year (1984) as an anonymous walk-on and understudy to Donald Igwebuike, Treadwell got his chance in 1985. He was not named the starting placekicker until Danny Ford told him to go on the field for the first field goal attempt at Virginia Tech. Later, he booted a 36-yard field goal on the last play of the game to give Clemson a 20-17 win.

The last-second heroics continued from there and Treadwell finished his Clemson career as the Tigers' number-two ranked kick scorer (233) and field goal kicker (47). He made 18-22 attempts his senior year and was named a consensus first-team All-American.

Treadwell was Mr. Clutch at Clemson, and now is doing the same in the NFL. Here he beat Georgia with a 46-yard field goal at the buzzer in 1986.

Despite his success, he was not drafted and signed as a free agent with the Denver Broncos. Even though he was perfect in preseason, including a career best 52-yarder, he was cut just before the season began.

"I was disappointed, but not totally dejected when I was cut in 1988," said Treadwell, a native of Jacksonville, FL. "I had done well in the preseason and proved to myself at least that I could kick at this level.

"A guy who helped me a lot was Nick Lowery, who has been cut 11 times by eight different teams in the NFL. Now he is a starter. He taught me perseverance and how to keep yourself in a proper frame of mind."

Treadwell has always been in a proper frame of mind and had matters in perspective. Soon after he was cut by the Broncos he returned to Clemson and sought employment in the engineering field. With his +3.0 GPA and other outstanding qualities, it was not long before Dow Chemical hired Treadwell through the Clemson placement office. He began his engineering career in Midland, MI.

"We had an understanding that I could return to NFL training camp in the summer," said Treadwell.

When the summer began, Treadwell actually was the property of the Phoenix Cardinals, who had purchased his services at the end of the 1988 season. But, by July, he was traded back to Denver. He soon was in the thick of a battle with two veterans, Rafael Septien and Rich Karlis.

"There wasn't any real turning point in the preseason. They charted all our kicks in practice and I was hitting a good percentage consistently. I also improved on my kickoffs through the use of a new nine-step approach and a three-inch tee."

When Karlis held out for more money Treadwell got even more of a shot. And, he has made the most of it in the regular season with 11 field goals in his first 12 attempts. The only miss was a 54-yarder. In an October 9 issue of Sports Illustrated he was rated the number-one kicker in the NFL off a unique formula devised by the Elias Sports Bureau.

But, the biggest thrill took place on a Monday night football game against Buffalo when he kicked four field goals in four attempts.

"I grew up watching Monday Night Football. When I went out for the first kick I could picture myself at home watching a Monday night game. Now I was playing in one. It was one of the most exciting events of my life."

Treadwell has had a lot of excitement lately. In addition to his pro football and engineering careers, he married a young lady he dated at Clemson, Kim Lark, on June 3.

Marrying a Clemson girl is not the only tie Treadwell has with his alma mater. "I still follow Clemson every week. One of the bar owners in Denver has a satellite dish so I watch every game that is on the satellite, even the ACC network games.

"That guy Gardocki (Chris) is quite a kicker. I hope he makes it in the NFL ... any team but Denver."

Michael Dean Perry can't even break his concentration when he's watching his Tigers play.

Clemson's Alumni Center Isn't What It Used To Be... It's Better!

We've remodeled, and we're open before and after each home football game. Our new look is comfortable, updated and available for your enjoyment.

We also have a new mobile Alumni Center. Our Alumni Association van is your Alumni "on the road" headquarters. You'll find the van at away football games, Clemson Club meetings and near the football stadium at home games. The van brings Clemson to you wherever you are.

We may look different, but we're still dedicated to serving, informing and involving you in the ongoing life of Clemson University.

We look different . . . both on campus and on the road . . . and we're looking for you.

Dr. Max Lennon

When Max Lennon came to Clemson more than three years ago, he brought with him some definite ideas about what was needed in order for Clemson to reach its potential: more emphasis on research and the graduate program (the university's greatest potential for growth and immediate economic impact); increased private support for academics; more effort in frontier areas of research to aid South Carolina's traditional industries; a more global perspective in both academic programs and research; and a significant state investment in higher education.

Those were the ideas; now for the reality:

- more than a 60 percent increase in research funding in a single year
- the most successful private fund-raising year ever, with more than a 40 percent increase over last year's record-breaking total
- a landmark experiment in the field of biotechnology, plus research that is breaking new ground in advanced apparel manufacturing, composites, robotics and many other areas
- the addition of international academic programs and research partnerships involving Clemson with institutions in Japan, France, Germany, Italy, Egypt, China, Israel and Great Britain, among others
- a $5-million higher education initiative called the Cutting Edge

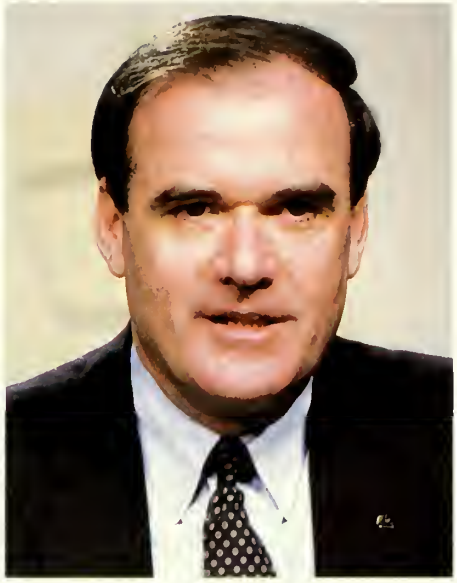
But the Lennon agenda is far from completed. The Clemson president sees more challenges, more opportunities, ahead. At a recent address to the faculty, he said, "We must continue to look for new ways to fulfill Clemson's land-grant mission: aggressively recruiting students into areas that are exclusive to Clemson — agriculture, forestry and textiles — and that have more job opportunities than graduates, increasing minority representation in the faculty and administration as well as the student body, and making Clemson more accessible.

"As a land grant college, we have an obligation in rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon sees Clemson as still in the process of maturing into a major, comprehensive university with a regional and national reputation in its primary mission areas — science and technology. He has worked hard to bring together the necessary support system by involving not only faculty and staff but also legislators, business leaders and alumni in determining Clemson's future. And the future looks pretty bright. "Clemson is a very exciting place to be right now," he says.

Lennon came to Clemson from Ohio State University, where he had been executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.



Lennon is a native of Columbus County, N.C., and earned his bachelor's degree and doctorate from N.C. State University. He began his teaching career at N.C. State.

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local PTA and the South Carolina Research Authority to the National Dropout Prevention Fund and the International Development Institute.

In the fall of 1987, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He will serve a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed in 1988 to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech '88 international conference in Washington.

This year Lennon also was appointed to chair a committee of top administrators and federal officials from 11 universities across the nation to work with congress on legislation relating to foreign assistance and international development. The committee is a project of the National Association of State Universities and land-grant colleges.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (27) and Robin (24).

Dr. Max Lennon made outstanding contributions at N.C. State, Texas Tech, Missouri and Ohio State before becoming Clemson's president in 1986.

Bobby Robinson

The Clemson athletic program has been on the rise in just about all forms of athletics in recent years. Bobby Robinson is the leader of the department as its athletic director and his commitment to success in competition, academics and facilities has been the key to this level of distinction.

An examination of the chart on this page shows that Clemson has made a steady rise in the national men's all-sports poll since he took over for the 1985-86 academic year. Last year Clemson finished sixth in the USA Today All-Sports poll, its highest ranking in six years and the second straight year Clemson has finished in the top 10 in the nation. The number of Clemson All-ACC performers and All-Americans also reached all-time highs.

Both major revenue sports had banner years with the football team winning a third straight bowl and finishing in the top 10 in the nation. Danny Ford's gridders also won a third straight ACC title. The men's basketball team went to its second NCAA tournament in the last three years, and it marked the first time in Clemson history the Tigers took part in a January 1 Bowl game and the NCAA basketball tournament.

The baseball team also advanced to the NCAA regional finals, meaning Clemson was one of just three teams in the nation to win a bowl game, an NCAA tournament basketball game and an NCAA baseball tournament game. A total of nine teams, highlighted by a number-three finish for the Clemson golf team, finished in the top 20 of their respective polls. This is a total topped only by the 1986-87 and 1987-88 academic years, two other years in the Robinson era.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had another outstanding year. Seventy-five young men and women had 3.0 or better grade-point averages each semester, with seven earning a perfect 4.0 GPA. The football team had three players named to the academic All-ACC team, and two students were named to Academic All-America teams. Over 30 former Tiger student-athletes received college degrees in the past 12 months.

The commitment to success in academics is further confirmed by the decision to build an academic learning center for student-athletes. Encompassing over 29,000 square feet, the center will feature classrooms, learning labs, and an auditorium, as well as office space for the academic advising staff, which now has four full-time staff members. It should be completed at a cost of $2.5 million by the fall of 1990.

Bobby Robinson is in his fifth full academic year as Clemson Athletic Director.

In the area of facilities, Robinson has a record of success and accomplishments second to none. Recent capital improvements include the indoor tennis facility and the soccer stadium, with the learning center and completion of the baseball stadium coming soon. Major renovations recently completed include the golf practice area, cross country trail, stadium locker rooms, wrestling practice room, football coaches meeting rooms and renovation of the football athletic dorm. A complete maintenance and irrigation system has also been implemented for all practice fields.

Renovations recently concluded include the new IPTAY/ticket complex at Gate 9 at the football stadium, a nine-lane all-weather track, Jervey Center offices and gymnasium. Without a doubt, Clemson athletic facilities are among the finest in the country.

Administratively, Robinson has instituted policies and procedures that benefit all constituents. Among the changes are the drug testing program, the Student Athlete Assistance Program (SAAP), a staff Policies and Procedures Manual, computerization of the department, the pro agents seminar, as well as the athletic academic scholarship endowment.

From a university prospective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 campus departments, serving a viable role to the mission of Clemson University. "Athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends," according to Robinson.

Under the direction of Robinson, the athletic department continues to support the university. Over $1 million have been contributed to the athletic academic scholarship fund; and band travel equipment and uniforms are funded by athletic dollars. An educational enhancement fund has been coordinated through the efforts of the athletic department and the Athletic Council.

With Robinson's qualifications, it is easy to see why the Clemson athletic program enjoys continued success — he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas of the university. Robinson has been a head coach and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Robinson graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was the president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department.

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director, and in 1980 he became associate AD. He held that title for five years, and his area of responsibility moved to primarily football and basketball. The native of Columbia became Athletic Director in March of 1985.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its first ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five finish. Robinson is a member of the NCAA golf committee and is a member of the CFA Board of Directors.

Danny Ford

The list of winningest active coaches in college football contains only the very best from the world of coaching. Last year, a new name appeared in the top five of that elite list. Clemson's Danny Ford has moved into fourth place on the list of winningest active coaches in the college ranks on a percentage basis.

Not only has Ford become one of the top coaches in the nation, but on the way to this accomplishment, he has defeated each of the top three as listed at the conclusion of the 1988 season. In only 10 full seasons, Ford has posted wins over Nebraska's Tom Osborne, Penn State's Joe Paterno, and former Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, the fourth winningest coach in the history of college football. The wins over Paterno and Switzer came after two of the winningest seasons in Clemson history, as the Tigers went 10-2 in 1987 and 1988. The win over Osborne's Nebraska team came on the heels of the only 12-0 season and national championship in the history of Clemson football.

Last year's Citrus Bowl victory over Oklahoma marked Ford's seventh bowl trip in only 10 full years as head coach and his fifth bowl victory in those seven trips. All 10 years as head coach, his teams have had winning regular season records. Clemson has won 80 percent of its games over the last three years and has been in the top 20 for 34 straight polls. Ford has already tied former Clemson coach Frank Howard for the ACC record for sole championships with five and for most top 20 seasons by a Clemson coach with six.

Ford's winning tradition did not begin when he became a head coach, it has followed through his entire affiliation with the game of football. Overall, he has been involved with 21 winning regular seasons in his 22 years of football, and his teams have won over 75 percent of the time.

Ford is fourth among winningest active coaches on a percentage basis.

His success as a head coach is not only evident in his win-loss record, but also in a long list of accomplishments Ford has compiled in his first 10 years as a head coach. This list would be impressive with anyone's name on it, but considering the fact that Ford is only 41, it is phenomenal. His most significant accomplishment, winning the 1981 National Championship, was attained when he was only 33-years-old, making him the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship.

Not only has Ford moved into fourth place on the list of winningest active coaches, but he has recently reached another milestone. He is now the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. He is already second in total wins among ACC coaches and needs just 13 wins to break Clemson Hall of Famer Frank Howard's record. These wins have not been easy ones, instead they have come against fierce competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 and top 10 teams than any other coach in Clemson history and is the only coach in conference history to have a winning record (15-11-1) versus top 20 teams (top 20 when playing Clemson, minimum 10 games played).

Ford has established a new era in football at Clemson University, creating one of the most solid programs in the nation. Now in his 11th full season with the Tigers, his record stood at 86-27-4 (.752) entering the season. Not only is Ford among the winningest active coaches, but Clemson also has the second best winning percentage in the South during this time period. Clemson is the only team in the nation to win a bowl game, a conference championship and finish in the top 20 of the AP poll each of the last three years. Clemson has the sixth best record (28-6-2) in the nation during this time period.

After examining Ford's football past, it is difficult to imagine him anything but a winner. Ford played tight end and offensive tackle for Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama between 1967 and 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on all three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as captain of the Alabama squad. Ford also played freshman basketball at Alabama.

Ford earned a B.S. degree in industrial arts and a Master's Degree in special education from Alabama, working as a graduate assistant coach for Bryant and then as a full-time assistant in 1972 and 1973. From 1974 to 1976 he served as an assistant coach at Virginia Tech and joined the Clemson coaching staff in 1977 as an offensive line coach. He was named assistant head coach prior to the 1978 season. At the end of that season at the age of 30, Ford was named the Tigers' head coach, making him the youngest active Division I coach in the country.

Clemson's head coach has had five bowl wins, five ACC titles and six Top 20 seasons.

Danny Lee Ford was born on April 2, 1948 in Gadsden, AL and married Deborah Anderson of Attalla, AL on January 23, 1970. The couple has four children: Jennifer Renee (3/15/73); Ashleigh Lynn (8/13/75); Mary Elizabeth (4/24/81); and Daniel Lee (10/17/85).

FACTS ON FORD

1. Fourth winningest active coach in America on a percentage basis (86-27-4).
2. Only coach in ACC history with over a 70 percent winning percentage, he is currently at .752.
3. Has coached Clemson in seven bowl games, five have been victories.
4. Clemson has won five ACC titles during his tenure (81, 82, 86, 87, 88).
5. Has coached six teams that have finished in the final Top 20 of the AP poll (81, 82, 83, 86, 87, 88).
6. Has beaten 15 top 20 teams and won 26 games by seven points or less.
7. Has been to 15 bowls in 22 years associated with college football.
8. Has coached 60 All-ACC players, 24 All-Americans and 38 of his former players have been drafted by the NFL.
9. Eight of his former players own Super Bowl Championship rings.
10. Had a 3-0 record against the top three winningest active coaches (Barry Switzer, Tom Osborne and Joe Paterno) at the end of the 1988 season.

Assistant Coaches

MILES ALDRIDGE
Inside Linebackers

ALDRIDGE is entering his fifth season as the Tigers' inside linebacker coach. A native of Kansas City, MO, Aldridge joined the Clemson staff on June 28, 1985 after a two-year stint at Duke. The 1971 graduate of Gardner-Webb College earned three letters in football. He began coaching on the collegiate level at East Tennessee State (1973-77), then moved on to Wichita State (1978) and Tulsa (1979). He also spent three years at Mississippi (1980-82) before taking a position at Duke, where he spent two years (1983-84). The coach of the two leading tacklers returning from the 1988 squad (Ed McDaniel and Doug Brewster), Aldridge recruits the eastern section of South Carolina, Philadelphia and New Jersey.

WAYNE BOLT
Tight Ends & K/O Returns

BOLT joined the Clemson staff on March 10, 1986 and is entering his fourth season with the Tigers. A 1979 graduate of East Carolina, his responsibilities include coaching the tight ends and kickoff return teams. Bolt earned all-conference and All-America honors during his playing career as an offensive guard for East Carolina (1974-77). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant for the Pirates, then spent a year at Wyoming (1980) before moving on to Auburn (1981-86). Bolt has coached four tight ends who have gone on to the NFL: Ed West (Green Bay Packers), Ron Middleton (Atlanta Falcons), Jeff Parks (Houston Oilers), and Jim Riggs (Cincinnati Bengals). During his first season as a Tiger coach, he coached All-ACC tight end (Jim Riggs) and his kickoff return team led the nation in average return, just the second team statistical championship in Clemson history. His recruiting territory includes Georgia, Virginia, Washington, D.C., and Alabama.

BILL D'ANDREA
Offensive Tackles

D'ANDREA, who is entering the fourth year of his second stint with the Clemson program, is responsible for coaching the offensive tackles. D'Andrea, who is responsible for recruiting in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York, rejoined the Clemson staff on June 23, 1986 after spending two seasons at Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was a graduate assistant coach at East Carolina (1974-75), a full-time assistant at the University of Virginia (1975), Massanuten Military Academy (1976-78) and Catawba College (1979-81). He also spent two years (1983-84) at Clemson as a graduate assistant, where he also served as football dorm director. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, completed his master's degree in 1975, and lacks only a few semester hours from completing a second master's degree. D'Andrea has coached an all-conference tackle each of the last two years and the Tigers have ranked in the top 15 in the nation in rushing each of the three seasons he has been a full-time coach.

LES HERRIN
Defensive Line

HERRIN is beginning his first season back with the Clemson football program after coaching at North Carolina (1988) and East Carolina (1985-87). Responsible for coaching the defensive line, Herrin was the Tiger inside linebacker coach from 1981 to 1984. Herrin's recruiting territory includes the state of South Carolina. Before coming to Clemson for the 1981 national championship season, Herrin also spent a year as the defensive coordinator at Appalachian State (1980). Herrin earned his bachelor's and master's degree from Western Carolina where he was a four-year letterman in football. During his first two years at Clemson, the Tigers ranked in the top 10 in scoring and rushing defense. Herrin also coached ACC MVP Jeff Davis, who went on to be captain of the Tampa Bay Bucs and 1989 All-Pro Johnny Rembert of the New England Patriots.

WOODY McCORVEY
Wide Receivers

McCORVEY is in his seventh year with the Tiger staff, and is reseponsible for coaching the wide receivers. For three years, the 1972 Alabama State graduate also coached tight ends, and for two of those seasons he coached an All-ACC tight end. A Grove Hill, AL native, his recruiting territory includes eastern North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, and Florida. McCorvey joined the Clemson staff on July 13, 1983 from Alabama A&M, where he spent four seasons (1979-82) as offensive coordinator. Prior to that position, he spent a year as the backfield coach at North Carolina Central (1978). McCorvey lettered four years at quarterback at Alabama State, where he earned his bachelor's degree, and then earned his master's from the University of West Florida in 1977. He has coached six receivers over his career who have been drafted or signed free agent contracts. As a player, he guided the Alabama A&M offense to top 20 rankings in total offense, passing offense, rushing offense, and scoring offense during his tenure there.

BILL OLIVER
Secondary

OLIVER joined the Clemson staff on January 22, 1986 and is in his fourth year as the Tigers secondary coach. Oliver is also responsible for recruiting in Florida, Georgia and Alabama. Oliver came to Clemson from the USFL's Memphis Showboats, where he spent two years (1983-85) and served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. He began his collegiate coaching career as the defensive secondary coach at Auburn (1966-71) and then spent nine years at his alma mater, Alabama, working under the late Paul "Bear" Bryant (1971-80). From 1980-83 he served as head coach at UT-Chattanooga before moving on to the professional ranks. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team, and he received his bachelor's degree in biology from Alabama in 1962. In each of his first two seasons at Clemson, the Tigers led the ACC in pass completion defense and fewest yards per attempt allowed. He has coached three Clemson players who have gone on to the NFL: Delton Hall (Pittsburgh Steelers), Donnell Woolford (Chicago Bears) and Perry Williams (New England Patriots).

CHUCK REEDY
Running Backs

REEDY is in his 12th season as the Tigers' running back coach and is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, New England, and New York. The St. Augustine, FL native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State, where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978, where he spent one spring as a graduate assistant coach (1978). Seven of Clemson's top 10 single season individual rushing performances have taken place under Reedy and Clemson has ranked in the top 15 in the nation in rushing five of the last six years. Additionally, he has coached nine Clemson players who have gone on to the NFL: Cliff Austin (New Orleans Saints), Stacey Driver (Cleveland Browns), Terrence Flagler (San Francisco 49ers), Kenny Flowers (Atlanta Falcons), Steve Griffin (Atlanta Falcons), Kevin Mack (Cleveland Browns), Jeff McCall (L.A. Raiders), Chuck McSwain (Dallas Cowboys), Marvin Sims (Baltimore Colts); additionally, Lester Brown played eight years in Canada, and Tracy Johnson was drafted by Houston in 1989.

RICK STOCKSTILL
Quarterbacks

STOCKSTILL is in his first season with the Tigers after joining the Clemson coaching staff on February 20, 1989. Stockstill came to Clemson from the University of Central Florida, where he spent four years as assistant head coach and wide receiver coach (1985-89). Stockstill's responsibilities at Clemson include coaching the Tiger quarterbacks and acting as the football dorm director. Previous to his stay at Central Florida, Stockstill spent two seasons as offensive coordinator and quarterback coach at Bethune-Cookman (1983-84). The Sidney, OH native earned three letters in football from Florida State University, where he quarterbacked the Seminoles to consecutive Orange Bowl appearances after the 1979 and 1980 seasons. Stockstill was also a 1980 and 1981 All-Southern Independent and All-Metro Conference performer for FSU. He received his bachelor's degree in physical education from Florida State in 1982.

LARRY VAN DER HEYDEN
Offensive Line

VAN DER HEYDEN joined the Clemson staff on January 5, 1979 and coaches the offensive line. A native of Brazil, Iowa, Van Der Heyden recruits upper South Carolina, North Carolina, and western Pennsylvania. He came to Clemson after coaching at Memphis State (1975-78), where he served as offensive coordinator, Virginia (1974-75), East Carolina (1973-74), Indiana State (1969-73), and Drake University (1968-69). Van der Heyden coached the defensive line at his alma mater, Iowa State, from 1965 to 1967, and served as a graduate assistant coach there in 1964. He is a member of the all-time Iowa State team selected by former players and coaches. He earned three letters in both football and baseball from Iowa State and received a bachelor's degree in physical education (1962) and a master's degree in education (1968) from the same institution. He has coached three All-America guards over the last six years at Clemson and for a five-year period (1983-87), one of his guards was chosen All-ACC.

TOMMY WEST
Outside Linebackers & Bandits

WEST is in his eighth season coaching the Clemson outside linebackers and bandit ends. His recruiting territory includes Florida and Georgia, and he also follows junior college athletes across the country. Prior to his arrival at Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State for two seasons and spent a year as an assistant coach at Mississippi (1979). West earned three letters in football and baseball at Tennessee (1973-75) and was drafted by the Tampa Bay Bucs in 1976 as a linebacker. He earned a B.S. degree in health education from Tennessee in 1975. West has coached two all-conference bandit ends, including Super Bowl Champion Andy Headen of the NY Giants.

Clemson Coaches

Clemson's 1988-89 sports program was ranked in the top 10 in the nation for the second consecutive year and the seventh time in the last 11 years as the Tiger program compiled 61 points in the USA Today national sports poll released last July. Clemson's football team had a lot to do with that figure with its number-nine final AP ranking, but eight other sports at Clemson also ranked in the top 20 last season.

Clemson was one of just eight teams in the nation to play in a bowl game, the NCAA basketball tournament and the NCAA baseball tournament for the 1988-89 academic year and was one of only three schools to gain at least one win in each postseason event. Clemson tied the ACC record for overall conference championships last year with seven. The Clemson football, baseball, men's outdoor track, men's Indoor Track, men's cross country, men's tennis and women's swimming teams all won ACC titles. The Tigers boasted 65 first-team All-ACC players last year, a new school record, and tied the Clemson record for All-Americans with 26. Clemson also had nine top 20 teams last year, one off the school record of 10.

ACC Coach-of-the-Year honors went to Bob Pollock (men's cross country, men's indoor track, men's outdoor track), Wayne Coffman (women's indoor track), Chuck Kriese (men's tennis), and Bob Boettner (women's swimming).

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing — there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through.

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled — the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

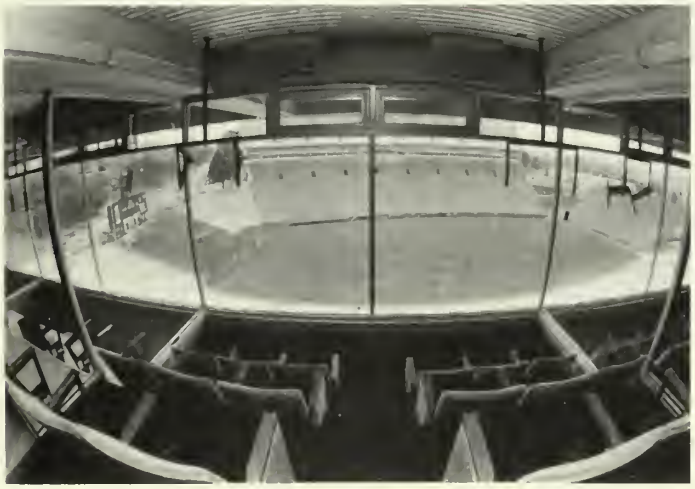
Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. A unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Rick Brewer, an official in the University athletic ticket office says that despite the stadium's large size, there are still season ticket problems. "When the second upper deck was built, we thought it would take care of everything," he said. "To our dismay, it hasn't. We've filled the upper decks and have moved season ticket holders into the end zone, which are not permanent seats."

Despite the apparent ticket crunch, Robinson says there are no immediate plans to further expand the stadium. "Before we expand we'll have to show over an extended length of time — like five to seven years — that we can sell out what we have now,' he said. "We don't want supply to greatly exceed demand. Even though it's hard to get tickets now, we still get people in our stadium. The ticket means more if its harder to get."

But, if Memorial Stadium is expanded again and capacity is pushed close to 100,000, there will be room for the construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horseshoe.



Clemson Memorial Stadium has over 100 luxury boxes, more than any other on-campus facility in the nation. Clemson's message board keeps fans up to date with other scores and stats, and also projects player's pictures after an outstanding play.

THE Shrine BOWL

of the Carolinas, Inc.

Every year a high school football game between all-star high school players from North Carolina and South Carolina attracts countless college football coaches to Charlotte, NC. Coaches like Clemson's Danny Ford and Wake Forest's Bill Dooley rate players from South Carolina and North Carolina in an effort to determine their freshman class for the following season. But, the game benefits more than just the high school players and college coaches.

The Shrine Bowl of the Carolinas has raised over $32 million since 1937 and that money has aided over 28,000 indigent, crippled and burned children at no cost to their families or taxpayers. Shrine Bowl funds have helped to build the new $26 million Greenville Shriners Hospital, which opened a 60-bed facility in July.

This year's game will be played December 9 at Charlotte Memorial Stadium and will be witnessed by 25,000 fans. For ticket information call the Shrine Bowl at (704) 547-1414, or contact by mail: PO Box 560505, Charlotte, NC 28256.

Clemson players past and present have been well-represented at the game. Here is a list of Clemson players who have benefitted from this game and who have also helped to raise millions of dollars for the Shriners' cause.

Poll History

By Susan Hiller

Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone, Thomas Edison created the light bulb and the phonograph, Ben Franklin discovered electricity, and Alan J. Gould concocted the Associated Press (AP) College Football Poll.

It's impressive to be among the famous creators. And, Alan Gould is — because he originated the poll which has served as the sole method for determining college football's national champion for the past 52 years.

The AP Poll

For several years in the early 1930's, Gould rated the top 10 college football teams in the country. At the time, he was the AP sports editor and he started his weekly stories by selecting the best teams.

"As soon as I started doing it, there was controversy," says Gould, who is now 91, retired and lives in Clearwater, FL. "You know, there's controversy now — no matter how you make up a poll. Football breeds controversy."

It was that controversy that led to a poll of college sports writers around the country that started in 1936. At the conclusion of the 1935 season there were three undefeated teams — Minnesota, Southern Methodist and Princeton. What else was Gould to do but rank them all No. 1?!

"There was a lot of friction over that," says Gould. "Minnesota thought they should be ranked over teams in any part of the country because in the opinion of those covering the Big Ten, they thought they were the superior conference."

The next year, 1936, Gould, with the encouragement of his colleagues, decided to set up the writer's poll so that he wouldn't be the sole individual deciding the fate of what team was to be ranked best in the country.

Gould selected sports editors and sportswriters covering the major conferences around the country to serve as poll voters. Ironically, Minnesota was selected as the national champion that very first year.

Today, the voting process is very similar except that a formula is followed that limits a state to one half vote for every Division I-A institution within that state. For example, the University of Alabama and Auburn University are the only Division I-A schools in the state of Alabama. Therefore, Alabama is allowed one full vote. There are currently 60 members on the panel.

"The formula is not that accurate," says Hershel Nissenson, who was the Associated Press college football editor and conducted the poll between 1968-88. "For example, a state like Florida, which has Florida, Florida State and Miami, would be entitled to one and a half votes. Obviously, you can't give them a vote and a half, so they get two votes. It's not 100 percent, but it's pretty close."

The UPI Poll

The United Press International (UPI) poll was started in 1950 and according to Fred McMane, UPI sports editor, the AP poll was its inspiration.

"AP's poll had become so popular with the newspaper clients that UPI decided to look for something that would get their logo in the paper and we took a different approach," McMane says. "Instead of going after the sportswriters, we decided we would set up a poll of coaches."

The idea was Leo Petersen's, who was the sports editor at the time.

When the poll was started, there were 35 coaches on the board. That was expanded to 42 in the early 1970's and in 1986 an additional eight were added and there are currently 50 voters. The board is now made up of 10 coaches from five geographical sections of the country.

Cool Those Tempers

There are stories galore regarding the compilation and announcement of who is the number-one football team each week.

For example, Hershel Nissenson has received threatening phone calls and lettes from irate individuals who are not satisfied with the outcome of a particular poll.

Danny Ford has taken Clemson to six AP Top 20 seasons.

Clemson's Top 20 Seasons

Year	AP Rank	UPI Rank
1939	12th	—
1948	11th	—
1950	10th	12th
1951	20th	—
1956	19th	—
1958	12th	13th
1959	11th	—
1977	19th	—
1978	6th	7th
1981	1st	1st
1982	8th	—
1983	11th	—
1986	17th	19th
1987	12th	10th
1988	9th	8th

There's a misconception by many who think Nissenson has some sort of power over the outcome of the poll and how the panel will vote.

"In 1979," Nissenson recalls, "Alabama was number one for seven consecutive weeks. In the last regular season game, Alabama beat Auburn 25-18, but they had to struggle. They really weren't impressive. Ohio State had finished the season the week before at 11-0 and even though they were both 11-0 that week, Ohio State sneaked ahead of Alabama for the number one spot."

Since the poll was close, Nissenson and his staff tracked down every pollster, but one, to insure an accurate vote. The one unreachable voter was vacationing in Hawaii and it was later learned that his vote would not have changed the poll's outcome.

"A good friend of mine, who then worked at a Birmingham television station, flashed my name on the screen and said, 'this is the guy to call if you're upset with the poll.' You know, like I did the voting," says Nissenson.

Some friend.

"You wouldn't believe some of the mail and calls I got from people in Alabama after that! Some of them were vicious."

The importance of the polls to fans, coaches and players is apparent. Its significance is even more evident when one realizes that this is the only system for determining a national champion in football. And it was all made possible by one Alan J. Gould. Three cheers for the inventor.

We're Team Players.

Wherever Chem-Nuclear does business, our first priority is the safe management of low-level radioactive waste. But we also take pride in being good corporate citizens—home team players.

In Barnwell, S.C., our current southeastern location, we make a real contribution. We provide scholarships and equipment and support special programs in the county schools. We support state-wide programs for exceptional students. And youth recreation is as important to us as our donations to the arts.

We helped fund a drug testing program for the sheriffs office, and set aside land for a fire station. We bought camera equipment for the police department, and put new lights on their patrol cars.

We are coaches, tutors, and volunteer firemen. We're active with organizations from the United Way to the National Guard, from churches and environmental groups to the Chamber of Commerce.

We're proud of our community and our contributions. While our first responsibility is to protect our neighbors and the environment by safely disposing of low-level radioactive waste, we take to heart our obligation to help build a strong, prosperous community—to be good citizens.

In Barnwell, when people talk about the home team, they're talking about us.

JOB COBB

Joe Cobb may just be one of Clemson's finest examples of a true student-athlete. A native of Greenville, SC and a graduate of Carolina High School, he received the ROTC Student-Athlete of the Year Award during his senior year there. That tradition has continued here at Clemson, as he will complete his collegiate career in May with a degree in political science. What's more, he will graduate with a 3.0 GPA after taking only three years of classes. After graduation, he plans to pursue a master's of public administration at the University of Georgia.

A deep snapper for the Tigers, Cobb has served a vital reserve role over the past three seasons. Although he saw limited action in 1987 and 1988, he began the 1989 season by playing in the opener against Furman.

Offensive line coach Bill D'Andrea says of Cobb, "He's a super kid who is very unselfish in his role as a reserve. He knows his role on the team and is willing to give his time and experience to the younger players. He is dependable and very responsible. Joe exemplifies the type of kid that you want to be a part of your program, even though he doesn't get to see a lot of action."

BRUCE DIXON

A veteran Tiger reserve, Bruce Dixon hails from nearby Walhalla where he played at Walhalla High School. While there, he was named all-area at his tight end position. Dixon joined the Clemson team as a walk-on in 1986 and has since managed to work his way up the depth chart.

After participating in only a few games while an underclassman, he hit his stride this season, playing in the victories over Florida State, Virginia, and Maryland.

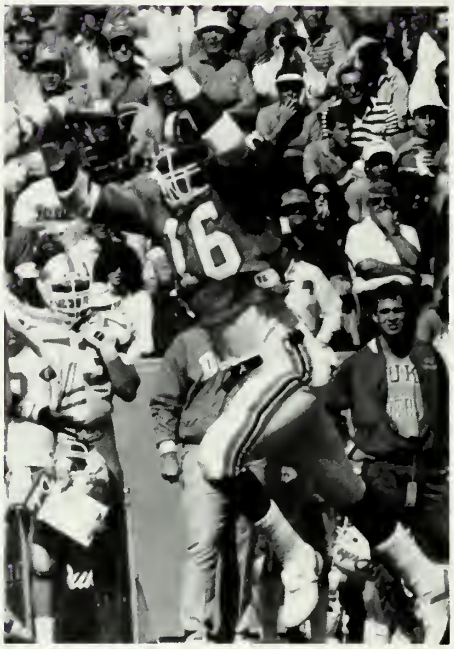
"Bruce Dixon is a great kid," says his coach, Wayne Bolt. "He walked on, worked hard, and paid his own way through school. He's the kind of kid who never complains and will do anything to help Clemson win."

WAYNE HARPS

"A true class individual" is the way linebacker coach Tommy West describes bandit Wayne Harps. A graduate of Griffin High School in Griffin, GA, who last spring earned a 3.0 GPA in management, Harps is a reserve who has grown to be one of Clemson's finest special teams' players.

That reputation came from a strong foundation in Harps's play during the 1988 season. He was the second-leading tackler among the special team performers for the Tigers with 14 special teams tackles, even though he missed the last two games of the season with a knee injury. He also saw considerable time at outside linebacker, where he amassed 14 more tackles, two sacks, two passes broken up, a quarterback pressure, a caused fumble and a recovered fumble. Against Furman and Maryland, he had quarterback sacks that cost the opposition 17 yards. Harps participated in 135 plays from scrimmage that year and had at least one tackle in nine of the 10 games he played. Versus ACC foes North Carolina and Maryland, he had a career best six tackles and contributed PBU's in each game. He ranked third among defensive ends in the bench press with a 330-pound mark and also in the leg sled at 700 pounds.

After getting off to a great start in the first three games this season, he sustained an injury in the fourth quarter of the Virginia Tech game that ended his college football career. Coach West commented on the injury saying, "We were counting on him to play a lot this year, but unfortunately he suffered that injury. He's the kind of guy, though, who works hard and meets adversity head on. He's just an outstanding kid."



Although Harps injured his knee against Virginia Tech, his 32 career special teams still is more than any other active Tiger.

An athlete with diverse talents in high school, Harps collected letters in football, basketball, and track. He excelled in football, however, as he was named All-South and was an honorable mention selection on the All-USA Today squad.

Mariable was named the defensive MVP of the 1988 Citrus Bowl.

CHRIS HART

A native Floridian, Chris Hart came to Clemson by way of Christopher Columbus High School in Miami. He received letters in both football and soccer, even though he did not begin playing the former until his junior year.

In 1988, Hart saw extended action during spring drills and once had five tackles in one of the scrimmages. Although he has had several injuries throughout his career with the Tigers, he entered this season as the third-team free safety, behind James Lott and Norris Brown.

Clemson secondary coach Bill Oliver says that Hart "has been very beneficial in helping us win conference championships and bowl games. It's the guys who don't necessarily play in all the games who can really make a difference by helping out during the week of practice preceding a big game."

DORIAN MARIABLE

A versatile athlete, Dorian Mariable participated in football, basketball and track while a student at Spartanburg High School. After coming to Clemson, he continued that athletic excellence throughout his years as a Tiger,

Joe Cobb

Bruce Dixon

Wayne Harps

culminating in a memorable performance in the 1988 Florida Citrus Bowl, where he had five tackles and a key third-quarter interception that prompted sportswriters to name him the Defensive MVP of the game against Penn State.

Just months after that stellar performance, however, Mariable found himself in a hospital, recovering from injuries sustained in a serious automobile accident. Although the road to recovery was not an easy one, he entered the 1989 season listed as the third-string weakside linebacker. This year, he has participated in the games against Maryland, Virginia and Georgia Tech, and has four tackles to his credit.

"Dorian Mariable has done a lot to help us win during his career, the most memorable occasion being the Penn State game. He has had a lot of physical problems, but he has always found a way to overcome them and get himself back to play football for Clemson University," says his coach, Miles Aldridge.

CARY PALMER

Cary Palmer is a walk-on from Anderson, SC who played wide receiver for the Tigers for three years before moving to strong safety in the spring of this year. He entered the fall listed at fourth-string at his new position.

An offensive guard and linebacker during his career at Westside High School, he has worked hard in the weight room while at Clemson. All his work has obviously paid off, as he is able to bench press 345 pounds and has a power clean figure of 221 pounds.

Palmer, who secondary coach Bill Oliver describes as "a very unselfish player who helps us greatly by emulating the opponent's defense," plans to receive his degree in marketing.

JEFF TAYLOR

A product of nearby Seneca High School, Jeff Taylor entered the 1989 season as the third-team bandit end. He was the embodiment of the all-around athlete in high school, as he earned letters in football, tennis, soccer and track. What may be even more impressive is that Taylor has never been cut from any athletic team, a statistic dating back to when he was only seven years old.

Coach Tommy West says of Taylor, "He's the kind of guy a coach loves to have around. He is tremendously cooperative and works hard every day to help the team in any way he can."

Taylor's athletic ability is evident in the weight room where his leg sled figure is 790 pounds. Moreover, he has the second-fastest time on the team in the mile-and-a-half run and has a vertical jump of over 28".

RON WESSINGER

"Ron Wessinger is really a great addition to our football team; he's a great youngster, has a super attitude, and he simply works his rear-end off. He plays his heart out in both practice and games and is out there just because he loves the game of football. I have only the highest admiration and respect for Ron Wessinger." This high praise of guard Ron Wessinger comes from offensive line coach Larry Van Der Heyden, who adds that his pupil wants to be a coach one day, and will probably be a highly successful one.

Wessinger came to Clemson by way of Chapin High School, where he earned three letters in football and one in wrestling. His patience and endurance in the weight room while at Clemson enabled him to move into the 1989 fall depth chart as the third team right guard. His bench press mark stands at 335 pounds and he stands in fifth place on the team in the leg sled, as he can push 860 pounds.

Wessinger also has successfully combined athletic and academic excellence while a Tiger. He was a member of Clemson's athletic academic honor roll with a 3.0 last year in secondary education.

FERNANDEZ WEST

Fernandez West proves to be the exception to the rule that bigger is better. At 5'8" and 150 pounds, West is the smallest player in stature on the first three teams, but has great leaping ability and runs the 40 in a time of 4.40, which ties for the best mark on the Clemson team.

A graduate of Haversham Central High School in Cornelia, GA, West was named a member of the Anderson-Independent All-Area team in 1984. Since then, he has played football and run indoor track for Clemson.

Wide receiver coach Woody McCorvey says of the speedy receiver, "He's a real dedicated guy; he has to be dedicated to have played for four years. He always works hard regardless of being a walk-on. He has a good attitude about the team. Fernandez is very personable and most importantly, he gets along well with his teammates."

Hall of Famers

By Sam Blackman

In order to honor and recognize some of Clemson's greatest athletes and administrators who have served the Clemson athletic community, the Clemson University Athletic Hall of Fame was formed in 1973. Since that time, 95 athletes, coaches and administrators have earned the distinction of being named to the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame.

Today, three former athletes and one administrator who have distinguished themselves in the Clemson athletic world will be inducted during halftime ceremonies.

JEFF DAVIS, FOOTBALL 1978-1981

Jeff Davis will be best remembered for his prowess on the football field from the linebacker position. Captain of the 1981 National Championship football team, Davis was a first-team consensus All-America linebacker in 1981. The Greensboro, NC native is still second on Clemson's career total tackle list with 469. He still holds the record for most tackles in a game with 24 against North Carolina in 1980. He was also the ACC's Player-of-the-Year in 1981 and holds the Tiger record for caused fumbles in a career with 10.

Davis continued his football career with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers where he led the team in tackles for four of his six years with Tampa Bay. He also served as captain of that team.

Jeff Davis is youth director at New Life Christian center in Tampa, FL. He is also part owner of a travel agency in Tampa. He also started a youth ministry entitled "Say Yes to God."

Most memorable moments at Clemson:

"My most memorable moment at Clemson has to be winning the football National Championship in 1981. Anytime you are involved in anything, the ultimate goal is to be the best. The National Championship was not talked about or thought about much during that year, simply because it had never been attained at Clemson.

"We began to win and play unified. We loved what we were doing and it soon became evident that we could win the National Championship. Winning the National Championship summed up my career at Clemson University. Being on the 1981 team was very rewarding because I was on a team that I loved and cared about."

What it means to be in the Clemson Hall of Fame:

"It is definitely a great honor and it is something I did not think about while playing. The hall of fame represents help from many people who are a part of Jeff Davis's life. The coaches, teammates, my mother, friends; they also go into the Hall of Fame when Jeff Davis goes into the Hall of Fame, because they played a big part in my life.

"This is the biggest athletic honor I have ever received. Clemson is definitely the pinnacle in my athletic career because it was the last place that football was fun and it was just a game that you played because you loved it."

What does the Clemson experience mean:

"There is no doubt that I had some great times here at Clemson. I am thankful to get an education and my degree, which is the other high point of my Clemson career. When I received my degree, this meant more to me than winning the National Championship, because receiving an education is the reason I was here in the first place. The people at Clemson are wonderful. There is a family atmosphere at Clemson. This university has a place in my heart and is responsible for making Jeff Davis what he is today."

Davis was the captain of Clemson's national championship team.

PHIL ROGERS, FOOTBALL, 1965-67

Phil Rogers, a football inductee, was one of Clemson's all-time great receivers. Probably the best game Phil Rogers had was the North Carolina game on November 6, 1965. Rogers caught 11 passes for 129 yards in a hard fought 17-13 loss. The reception total is still a Clemson single game record.

Phil Rogers played varsity football during the 1965-67 seasons. The native of Clinton, SC was the starting flanker in 1966 and 1967. As a sophomore, he caught 36 passes and as a junior, he caught 42, which is the most ever caught by a Clemson junior, and is still sixth on the Clemson single season list. He was the Tigers' leading receiver for three years in 1965 (466), 1966 (574) and 1967 (429).

Rogers is still third among career reception leaders, as he had 106 receptions for 1,469 yards for a 13.9 average.

Phil was a member of Tiger Brotherhood and twice President of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He earned his degree in 1968, majoring in Recreation and Parks Administration.

After completing his career at Clemson, Phil was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL in 1969, played with the Richmond Saints during the 1969 and 1970 seasons and was scheduled to start for the New Orleans Saints as the 1971 season approached. Unfortunately, a serious leg injury prevented him from continuing a promising professional career.

Rogers still holds the Clemson record for receptions in one game.

In 1974, at the age of 27, Phil died after a courageous bout with a malignant brain tumor.

Coach Frank Howard Remembers Phil Rogers:

"Phil was a fine athlete and played in the days when we didn't throw the ball much. In the 1965 North Carolina game, when he caught 11 passes, I remember he caught a touchdown pass they said would have won the game for us, but the referees said he was out. But I know he was inbounds. He was a fine man and I am glad to see him get in the hall of fame. He should have been in it a long time ago."

Almeda Jacks, sister, remembers Phil Rogers

"My family was elated when they heard that Phil was named to the Clemson Hall of Fame. A single day doesn't go by that we don't think about Phil. To us it is a big honor, and we are very proud and excited that Phil was remembered in this special way. We are looking forward to this weekend. Phil was a special person, he was a Christian leader and was very close to his family. He really loved Clemson."

BARBARA KENNEDY-DIXON, BASKETBALL, 1978-82

Barbara Kennedy's name will always be synonymous with Clemson Lady Tiger Basketball.

Lightly recruited from high school, Kennedy-

Kennedy-Dixon scored her 2,000th point on this shot against #1 Old Dominion. She went over 3,000 later in her career and is still the ACC's career leader.

Dixon soon proved to be one of the best collegiate players of all time.

Kennedy-Dixon holds the distinction of being the first female athlete to have her jersey (42) retired at Clemson University.

The Rome, GA native holds numerous ACC and Clemson school records. She holds the ACC and school record for most points scored in a single game with 45 against Claflin. She also holds school and conference single game records for most field goals made (20), and most field goals attempted (35). Kennedy-Dixon holds Clemson and ACC single season records for most points scored (908), most rebounds (400), most field goals made (392), most field goals attempted (760), best scoring average (29.3), and best rebound average (12.9).

She was a two-time All-American and a three-time All-ACC selection. Kennedy-Dixon was named rookie of the year her freshman season.

Barbara is now the assistant women's basketball coach at Clemson University. During the past two years, the Lady Tigers have compiled a record of 41-20 and have made two trips to the NCAA playoffs including a final 16 appearance last season. Barbara Kennedy was married to Marvin Dixon last summer.

Most memorable moments at Clemson:

"My most memorable athletic moment was on February 20, 1982, in a game against North Carolina. This was the only time that my mother had an opportunity to attend a game, and it was my final home game as a college student. I scored 42 points, the number that I wore, and after our game, I sung the national anthem before the men's game with North Carolina. That, by far, has stuck in my mind more than any other event. When I think about it now I get tearful.

"My collegiate coach, Annie Tribble, to this day is like a second mother and is still one of my best friends. I still go to her for advice because she is a special person to me."

What it means to be in the Clemson Hall of Fame:

"Being in the Clemson Hall of Fame and being able to play basketball at Clemson are highlights of my athletic career. I am touched that I was remembered after my career, it will probably be the highest honor I will ever receive. My goals were team oriented and I gave my former teammates and coaches the credit. I want to thank God, my family, my coaches especially my collegiate coach, Annie Tribble, my teammates, fans, and administrators at Clemson University — without them I could not have been as successful."

What does the Clemson experience mean:

"As a high school senior, I was not heavily recruited as I heard only from three schools, South Carolina, Clemson, and a junior college. I took my first visit to Clemson, and being on campus for the first time, I fell in love with the place and I told everybody else I had made my decision, that I was going to Clemson.

"During my undergraduate days at Clemson, I met so many nice people that were willing to help. As an assistant coach with the women's basketball team, I have the opportunity to work with athletes. Having been through school as a student-athlete I know what my players are going through and I am happy that I can lend a helping hand to them when they are having trouble.

"One day I want all our players to look back and say I am glad I am a Clemson graduate."

GEORGE BENNETT, CLEMSON ADMINISTRATOR 1971-1979

George Bennett is recognized as one of the best college fund-raisers in the nation. It is only fitting that he is being inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame for his work at Clemson.

A 1955 graduate of Clemson, Bennett was an assistant athletic director for business for eight years, 1971-1979, during the last two of which he also was executive secretary of IPTAY. Under his leadership, annual contributions to IPTAY doubled to more than $2.3 million from one million dollars and memberships topped 15,000 from 8,800.

In 1987, he was honored by winning the Clemson Distinguished Service Award. He was also named the National Athletic Fund Raiser of the Year by the National Conference for Athletic Fund Raisers.

Upon leaving Clemson in 1979, he was an Associate Athletic Director at Vanderbilt University. There he helped build Vanderbilt's Commodore Club from 650 members to more than 6,000, with annual contributions for athletics growing from $275,000 to $2.2 million.

He served as Athletic Director at Furman University from 1986 to 1989 and is currently an Executive Vice President for Development at the Baptist Hospital in Nashville, TN."

Bennett's work with IPTAY helped improve Clemson facilities by leaps and bounds.

Most memorable moments at Clemson:

"We have many fond memories of Clemson, as it is a special place. As an administrator, the most memorable athletic moment had to be on March 7, 1979, when we defeated Kentucky in the NIT in Rupp Arena in front of over 23,000 fans. At the time, this was a big win for our basketball program. Another moment took place in 1977. Who could ever forget the catch Jerry Butler made in our football comeback win against South Carolina in 1977.

"Another memorable event in my life at Clemson, was when I was head cheerleader, and I started the tradition of firing the cannon after we scored. My dad bought a cannon for the school so we could signify that Clemson had scored."

What it means to be in the Clemson Hall of Fame:

"When I heard that I had been selected, I was very excited. I wanted to share this with my father who is deceased. He would have been excited about us being recognized for our loyalty to Clemson University."

What does the Clemson experience mean:

"Clemson has made a big impact on my life. It is a privilege to have graduated from Clemson College and an honor and a pleasure to have worked for Clemson University. Both were an education.

"When Clemson was a military college, it developed a closeness among the student body as we lived and worked together. There was a spirit that drew people together. This is one reason that Clemson has had so much success with its fan support. It is this spirit of closeness and spirit that has drawn us together."

The Old Mill Stream Inn

3123 Hwy. 14 South Greenville, South Carolina 29615
(803) 288-3411

"Old Time Family Restaurant"

SINCE 1965

LOCATED IN THE HISTORIC BATESVILLE MILL ON THE BANKS OF SCENIC ROCKY CREEK IN BATESVILLE COMMUNITY. SPECIALIZING IN THE VERY BEST OF SEAFOOD, FISH, BAR-B-QUE, AND CHICKEN PREPARED IN THE FINE OLD SOUTHERN TRADITION. SERVED IN AN INFORMAL ATMOSPHERE DESIGNED FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY.

HISTORY OF BATESVILLE MILL:
WILLIAM BATES BUILT THE ORIGINAL MILL AT THIS SITE BETWEEN 1812 AND 1840. DURING THIS ERA THE MILL WAS POWERED WITH WATER PROVIDED BY ROCKY CREEK. A LARGE WATER WHEEL LOCATED BEHIND THE MILL TURNED THE CONVEYOR BELTS WHICH IN TURN RAN THE SPINNING MACHINES. THE YARN PRODUCED BY THE MILL WAS DISTRIBUTED THROUGHOUT THE CAROLINAS BY A WAGON TEAM DRIVEN BY WILLIAM THACKSTON. HE TRADED YARN FOR HIDES, FURS, HAMS AND CAROLINA PRODUCE WHICH IN TURN WAS SOLD IN THE COMPANY STORE LOCATED ACROSS THE STREET. DURING THE CIVIL WAR THE MILL PRODUCED CLOTH FOR THE CONFEDERATE GOVERNMENT AND ONLY ONE DAY A WEEK PRODUCED CLOTH TO SELL THEMSELVES. THE ORIGINAL MILL WHICH WAS A TWO STORY WOODEN STRUCTURE, BURNED AROUND 1880. THE NEW BUILDING WHICH IS STILL STANDING (NOW THE OLD MILL STREAM INN) IS OF LOCALLY HAND MADE BRICK.

WE INVITE YOU FOR A VISIT TO THE 19th CENTURY PERIOD. THE ENTIRE FAMILY WILL ENJOY IT.

Emergency Services

By Christine Kelly
Genetech, Inc.

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake and physical exertion. Our two more frequent serious medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice. Seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:

1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea and/or shortness of breath.

Expect a Denial

Frequently heart attack victims deny they're having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "it's just indigestion."

Find out what's really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

GREAT TEAMS BEGIN WITH THEIR LINEMEN

Like the game of football, the success of any team depends greatly on its unsung heroes, the many people who pull together as one to get the job done.

At SCE&G, the name of our game is customer service. And our success depends on this same kind of teamwork.

Our team has a lot of unsung heroes. They're our linemen, gasmen, meter readers, engineers, and power plant operators. They're also the inspectors, computer experts, accountants and customer service representatives who work to serve you. In fact, they're everyone you depend on to be knowledgeable and safety conscious, to respond quickly and to give you the kind of quality service you've come to expect from the people at SCE&G.

Support Staff

By Heather Czeczok and Eric Young

Trainers play a very important role in the Clemson football program. Many times their work may go unnoticed by the public, but never by the players.

A trainer's day begins at 6:30 A.M. when players receive treatment for various injuries. Depending on the injury, these treatments include ice packs, whirlpools, ultrasounds, rehabilitative protocal and weights.

Before practices, the trainer's job starts again. There are ankles to be taped, braces to be applied and special pads to be fitted. When the preparations are completed, then it is time for practice. His job now is to watch practice and check the progress of injured players. He also attends to any injury problems that occur.

Another aspect of a trainer's job is to keep the team properly hydrated. Each trainer is assigned a group of players to whom he provides water and gatorade. He does so anytime during practice as long as he does not disturb the practice.

Each Thursday prior to a game, the trainer must help pack equipment. The team departs immediately after its Friday workout to go to Anderson, SC. Some of the student trainers go to the motel on Friday night to pass out snacks after the team meeting. On Saturday morning, six student and two full-time trainers are responsible for waking up the team. They also take care of pregame taping and bandaging before the departure for Clemson.

The rest of the trainers make preparations at the stadium. One group prepares the sidelines, while another group readies the locker room. Two students are assigned to help the visiting team with any of their needs.

Clemson has an excellent staff of trainers. Fred Hoover is the head trainer and assistant athletic director. Danny Poole and Reno Wilson are the assistant trainers. These three men are the only full-time trainers, thus student help is key to the operation. There are also five graduate assistants who are each assigned a sport for which they are totally responsible.

Hoover is very proud of the team of trainers who work with him. "We are very fortunate at Clemson to have a very fine group of student trainers who do a very good job for us. They are well-qualified and are very dedicated young men and women."

Each trainer is required to have both state and national certification. According to Hoover, "The National Athletic Trainers Organization is the governing body of the training profession. It requires that trainers pass a certification exam and meet set requirements." South Carolina also has an additional certification which is required for trainers in the state.

There are twenty-one student trainers who work with all of the Clemson sports. For those who are interested in making sports training into a career, there is the option of working as an apprentice. The student works under a certified trainer for a certain number of hours as well as taking required courses. This prepares him to take the national exam.

When asked the question, "Who puts the most time into Clemson Tiger Football?" the most common response is either the players or the coaching staff. But as Danny Ford will tell you, popular opinion isn't always the right answer. Admittedly, the players and the coaches do put forth a lot of time and effort, and they do in fact, make great sacrifices for our Saturday afternoon enjoyment. But at the same time, these individuals are richly rewarded for their athletic accomplishments.

There is a background group out there lost amidst the pomp and pageantry, that rarely ever hears the fans' applause, or seldom ever receives the media's attention for the work that they do. They are the people that make a day at Death Valley a much more enjoyable experience for all: players, coaches, and fans alike. This group of unheralded, hard-working students is the managers.

Manager. The very word evokes images of the water bottle-toting youngster that would scurry up and down the sidelines during the old high school playing days. But when describing a manager at a major Division I power like Clemson, this popular conception couldn't be any further from the truth. Obtaining the job of manager is a highly-prized and highly-coveted position. It is a position of pride, hard work and dedication. They are the team behind "the team."

Hard-working is the adjective that best describes the managing staff. Equipment manager Bobby Douglas, the "manager mentor," boasts that "there isn't a harder working group of individuals on campus." Proof to back up such a claim isn't hard to find. The managers work seven days a week and a countless number of hours. After adding in the time spent on classwork to their managerial duties, the average football manager's work load equates to putting in 55 to 60 hours at the office. Douglas feels that the demands placed upon the managers, "better prepares them once they get out of college to succeed in the working world. It teaches responsibility, preparation and organization."

One might think, with all the time that the managers put into their jobs, that their studies would suffer. Actually, quite the contrary is true. This well-disciplined group also puts the time into the books. The football managers recently attained the number-one ranking among all athletic team managers here at Clemson, with 22 out of 35 obtaining a 3.0 GPR or better.

The manager's responsibilities are vast and varied. Laundering hundreds of pounds of dirty football uniforms, "striping" and "pawing" each helmet to perfection, checking for broken equipment, setting up practice dummies, and just making sure there is enough soap in the shower are but a few of the daily duties performed by this tireless group. The managers do much and ask little. They are the team behind "the team."

Clemson Managers and Trainers provide valuable services for the Clemson football team. They put in long hours during the football season.

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson,
Reign Supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tigers' roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

Last year, ARA served thousands of meals to people away from home. College students, hospital staffs, industrial personnel. Why, right here in Clemson, ARA serves over 15,000 breakfasts, lunches and dinners to students, parents and faculty daily.

But you may not know our full story. ARA chooses only the freshest and most wholesome ingredients. Bright, crisp vegetables. Ripe, firm fruits. The choicest meats and dairy products. Ingredients that are chopped, steamed, broiled, baked and blended into lucious menus. For banquets or birthdays. Cocktail parties or tailgate feasts. In your home or in one of our private dining rooms in the Clemson House. No matter what your special occasion, ARA can fill the bill of fare.

So the next time your calendar is marked with a red letter day... call ARA for that special service.

We'll cater to your every need.

Clemson University Commemorative Bowl Pins

Each set is individually numbered

Limited to 15,000 sets

Released for the first time in March 1989, this historic set of pins is the first to commemorate Clemson University participation in major collegiate bowl competition, beginning with the 1940 Cotton Bowl played January 1, 1940 in Dallas, Texas.

Each pin displays that year's distinctive Bowl Logo and the helmets of the Tigers and their opponent, with the points scored under each team's helmet. Each pin has a hanging drop piece that proclaims the name and emblem of the Bowl Champion.

With the assistance of Bob Bradley, Clemson Sports Information Director and his staff, the archives at Clemson University were researched for near forgotten authentic artwork from the fifteen bowls the Tigers participated in. As you look at your pin set, notice the helmets in the 1940 Cotton Bowl were brown leather with no face mask, also notice the absence of the now familiar "Tiger Paw." The Tigers first bowl appearance using the "New Plastic Helmets" was the 1949 Gator Bowl. The face mask made its first Clemson Bowl appearance in the 1957 Orange Bowl and the now famous "Tiger Paw" made its bowl debut in the 1977 Gator Bowl. The results of the research are designs for each pin that pull together and preserve the historic past of Clemson Football.

This Commemorative Clemson University Pin Collection is limited to 15,000 sets. Each set is numbered, with the production of the 15,000th set the molds will be destroyed, thus assuring the purchaser that this commemorative pin set is truly a collectors piece that will appreciate in value year after year.

To ensure that pins for future bowls will be available, Sports Mint, Inc. will produce a commemorative pin for all future bowls the Clemson Tiger Football Team participates in. The pin will be available to set owners 60 days after the completion of the bowl.

One of the most unique approaches to remembering Clemson's bowl games that I've seen in my 80 years. Owning one of these should be a must to every Tiger fan.

— Coach Frank Howard

This is one of the classiest remembrances of Clemson's bowl history ever assembled. The workmanship and thought put into these 15 post-season games is authentic in every detail.

— Bob Bradley
Sports Information Director

No one's tiger den will be complete without one of these plaques showing all of the Clemson Bowl games. It will be a conversation piece for years to come.

— Coach Danny Ford

(Set No. 1 was presented to Danny Ford to go on permanent display at Jervey Athletic Center.)

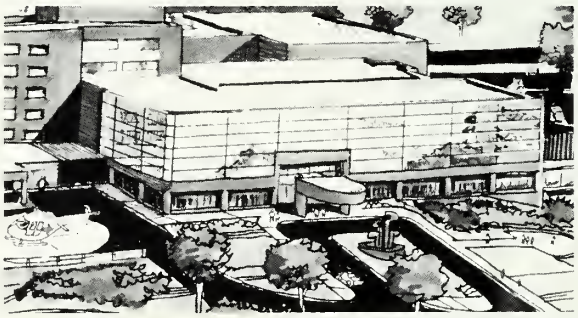
THE PROVIDENCE HEART INSTITUTE IS BUILT ON SOMETHING SOLID.

The Providence Heart Institute's new building is one of the finest medical facilities in the country. But to a patient with a life-threatening heart disease, an attractive, efficient building isn't enough. What is important is inside the building—Providence people, with the experience gained in treating thousands of patients.



Providence has more adult cardiovascular experience than any other hospital in South Carolina. For over fifteen years we have been the state's leading referral center for the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease. Physicians and patients have long recognized our reputation for professional skills and compassionate care.

We're excited about our new building, equipped for state-of-the-art testing and treatment. But that building isn't the reason people come to the Providence Heart Institute. They come for what it's built on.

The Clemson University athletic program is competitive on the national level. In the 1988-89 year Clemson was one of just eight schools in the country to have teams participate in a bowl game (1989 Citrus Bowl), the NCAA basketball tournament (1989 West Regional), and the NCAA baseball tournament (Atlantic Regional). Clemson was one of only three schools to gain at least one win in each postseason event, tied the ACC record for overall conference championships in an academic year and finished sixth in the national All-Sports poll.

The success of the Clemson athletic program comes during a time when the integrity and accountability of the academic progress of student athletes are receiving national attention. IPTAY has been a large part of this success by being committed to the student athlete.

IPTAY is recognized as one of the oldest, largest and most successful athletic fundraising organizations in America. IPTAY was the first athletic fundraising organization in the country to top the two, three, four and five-million dollar marks in annual donations. The 1988-89 academic year marks the 25th consecutive year of increased contributions to the IPTAY scholarship fund.

In 1934 Dr. Rupert Fike founded IPTAY with a very simple purpose in mind. IPTAY provides funds for athletic scholarships. Clemson continues to be one of the few schools in the nation to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for 18 men's and women's varsity sports. Since 1934, IPTAY has provided scholarships for over 5,000 student athletes, trainers, and managers. In recent years an average of 450 student-athletes per year have been recipients of scholarships funded by IPTAY. IPTAY currently has a reserve fund to cover the scholarship costs for the student-athletes presently attending Clemson on athletic scholarships and scholarships committed to incoming freshman.

IPTAY currently provides the funds for tutorial programs staffed by trained academic advisors assisted by graduate and undergraduate students. This support is intended to assure that all student-athletes are given the opportunity to earn their degree while participating in athletics. Future plans include a commitment of IPTAY funds for a new $2.5 million Academic Learning Center.

IPTAY has played a large part in making Death Valley one of the top stadiums in the nation.

Allison Dalton is the Executive Secretary of IPTAY.

The Academic Learning Center is a 29,000 square-foot facility. It will house the tutoring and advising program for student-athletes. The building will contain various sized study and tutoring rooms to be used for individual study as well as for small group instruction. Computer facilities, an office/reception area for the advising staff and an auditorium will also be contained in the facility. IPTAY is proud to be a part of the commitment on behalf of the athletic department administration to pursue academic success for all student-athletes.

The generous support of over 20,000 loyal donors to IPTAY has allowed the organization to go beyond the funding of athletic scholarships by providing the financial basis for many of the unparalleled athletic facilities at Clemson.

Since 1978, IPTAY has provided the funding for $32 million of capital improvements in the area of athletics. These improvements include the expansion of the football stadium, the newly renovated baseball facility (Tiger Field), the indoor tennis facility, the soccer stadium, the new outdoor track, the weight room, the new golf practice area, a new cross country course, and the IPTAY/Ticket office facility.

IPTAY is also proud to provide funding for the Tiger Band. Each year IPTAY budgets financial support for travel, uniforms and equipment for this integral part of the Clemson athletic program.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. This scholarship endowment is funded by certain company gifts which are made as a result of employee contributions to IPTAY. In addition, the athletic department has made generous contributions to the endowment from athletic revenues. The Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship is presently the largest scholarship endowment at Clemson.

The tremendous success of IPTAY is due, in large part, to the organizational makeup which allows members to be as close to IPTAY as they are to their local IPTAY leadership. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY County Chairman, and every county is alloted one IPTAY representative for every 35 members.

IPTAY donors are kept up-to-date with Clemson athletics through the Orange and White. This is an official IPTAY publication and distributed exclusively to IPTAY donors in appreciation of their support.

Clemson University will continue to be recognized and respected on the national level athletically and academically with the full support of IPTAY. IPTAY will continue to be successful because a loyal commitment to Clemson University is a way of life in the hearts of Clemson alumni and friends.

Tiger Band

By Caroline Werntz

The Demon Deacons of Wake Forest await the Clemson Tigers as they run down the hill for the final time this decade on this truly historic day. Not only is this the last home game for thousands of Clemson seniors, it is also Hall of Fame Day at Memorial Stadium, and four former Tigers will be inducted at halftime into the University Athletic Hall of Fame. It is also the 50th anniverary of the 1939 team that went to Clemson's first bowl game, the 1940 Cotton Bowl.

Former football players Phil Rogers and Jeff Davis, former women's basketball player Barbara Kennedy Dixon, and George Bennett, a former executive secretary of IPTAY, join other Tiger greats as inductees into this distinguished group of Clemson graduates.

On this Hall of Fame Day, Tiger Band will begin the festivities with its traditional pregame show. Fans will be able to relive the glory of the National Championship year as the band opens with "Sock It To 'Em", followed by the "Orange Bowl March" and the song sure to bring a smile to all Clemson faithful, "Tiger Rag."

Dotting the i at today's game will be Tiger Band Commander Penni Black, a microbiology major from Lexington, SC. She is representative of all 25 Tiger Band seniors presenting their final halftime show for the home crowd.

The College of Charleston Concert Choir will then make a special guest appearance by joining with University Chorus and Tiger Band to honor America with its rendition of "America the Beautiful," directed by Dr. Richard E. Goodstein.

Dr. Bruce Cook will then lead the student musicians in "The Star-Spangled Banner" while an ensemble from Pershing Rifles Company C-4 presents our state and national colors. The band and chorus will then lead the thousands of proud Clemson alums in the Clemson University Alma Mater. The invocation will be offered by the Reverend Mickey Fisher of the Clemson United Methodist Church.

Today's halftime show will give Tiger fans the opportunity to welcome the Wake Forest Demon Deacon Band to Death Valley, as they perform for the first time ever on Frank Howard Field. Under the direction of Wake Forest graduate Dr. Martin Province and drum majors Allyson Kurzmann and Stuart Brock, the Deacs will present a show that will take everyone back to his childhood as they present a salute to cartoon themes.

Tiger fans will be challenged to try to catch all the themes included in the fast-paced show. Those themes presented will be from such favorite cartoons as The Flintstones, The Pink Panther, Bugs Bunny, Woody Woodpecker, Mighty Mouse, Fat Albert, The Jetsons, and Looney Tunes. Wake Forest will then close its show with a song familiar to all Deacon supporters, "O Here's To Wake Forest."

"The Band That Shakes The Southland" will then take to the field to present its fourth-straight and final home show of the season with an encore performance of its salute to classical music, "Saturday Afternoon at the Opera."

Included in the show will be "Night On Bald Mountain," by Modefte Moussorgsky and arranged by Jay Bocook and Edward Madden's arrangement "Excerpts from Pagliacci." Andrew Lloyd Weber's famous "Phantom of the Opera" closes the show. Veteran band announcer Nick Peck will then ready the crowd for an exciting second half of Clemson football with "The Song That Shakes The Southland," TIGER RAG!!

Twenty-five Tiger Band seniors will make their final home appearance today. This group of seniors has put in many, many hours of hard work over their years at Clemson to make each performance of Tiger Band special to all those who attend the games.

Hats off to all these seniors who will be closing a chapter of their collegiate careers at today's game.

...because I want to know.

Marty Davis wants to know if we can learn to design buildings that save energy and protect the environment.

Burning fossil fuels to heat buildings and to generate electricity is a big cause of the "greenhouse effect." So energy efficiency in buildings — where 30 percent of energy is consumed — is a top environmental concern.

In some offices, a flick of the light switch means illuminating an entire floor— not just one bulb. Same thing with heating and air conditioning.

But technology can help change that.

New building materials are more energy efficient from point of manufacture to installation and use. And computers can now monitor electrical usage, temperature, ventilation and indoor air pollution levels — even down to an area as small as an individual work space.

At Clemson, architecture professor Marty Davis is teaching students to design buildings that are both technologically innovative and environmentally sensitive. He has even developed a new graduate curriculum incorporating environmental issues into architectural education.

Clemson architects now learn to use natural lighting and the latest technology to save energy and reduce pollution.

Clemson University . . . learning, understanding and teaching about our environment.

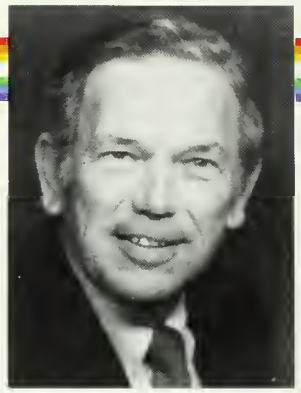
The Last Word



By Bob Bradley

Fifty years ago this past Thursday, the Clemson football team went to Annapolis and defeated Navy, 15-7. It was a key victory in this landmark season. Those accomplishments of 1939 are being honored in Death Valley today. Much of Clemson's recent success is tied to 1939.

The irony about this Navy victory was that the Tigers pulled off the coup without the services of All-American tailback Banks McFadden, who did not even make the trip because of a leg infection.

Maybe another remarkable thing about the Navy win was that it came nine days after Clemson had defeated South Carolina, 27-0, at the State Fair and the Tigers had a chance to be a little 'flat' or maybe without the 'I' for the Middies.

That win over the Naval Academy gave the Tigers a modest 4-1 record. But Clemson would win its final four games (only nine games a season were played back then) and receive an invitation to play in the fourth annual Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Oddly enough, the only loss of the season was a 7-6 squeaker to Tulane in New Orleans. And many observers say that is where McFadden made the All-America team on his punting exhibition, especially on his quick kicks from the single-wing tailback position. He averaged over 43 yards a kick in 12 boots that afternoon.

But starting out with a 1-1 record after two games, few would even hazard a guess that Clemson would play in its first bowl game at the end of the season and that Coach Jess Neely would move on to Rice, where he would remain head man for 27 years.

It was always a rock in Neely's craw for anyone to refer to his first seven seasons as "Neely's Seven Lean Years" because in his fourth year and his final six, Neely had winning teams. It might seem ironic that Neely's first winning season, 1934, was the year that IPTAY was founded. Neely had asked for $10,000 from IPTAY.

But Neely fought adversity with slow and well thought-out solutions. How many coaches today could win 36 games in six seasons with only 14 out of 56 games played at home? Only once did Clemson play as many as four games at home during Neely's stay and only twice were there three home games in a year. Thirteen of the 56 games were played on neutral sites.

Even this '39 team only played two games at home, opening the season with an 18-0 win over Presbyterian, and then in the seventh game, downing Wake Forest 20-7.

With the exception of the Tulane loss, the Tigers were only behind twice during the entire season, and there was one tie, although it didn't last long.

Players went both ways, and only gave up 45 points in the 10 games, counting the Cotton Bowl.

In the third game, the Tigers defeated N.C. State, 25-6, in Charlotte with the 'Pack's lone score coming in the final period. Clemson played Navy at Annapolis, then went back to the nation's capitol the next Saturday and downed George Washington, 13-6.

The second and final home game against the Deacons drew 12,000 people. It must have been quite a show. "Scoop" Latimer, late sports editor of The Greenville News, wrote as his lead:

"Ole Roman chariot races, the Kentucky Derby, the Indianapolis Speedway and other epics of speed were feeble gestures for producing thrills compared with the football circus Coach Jess Neely's Clemson Tigers staged to defeat the Wake Forest Demon Deacons ...

"Neely's Greater Combined Shows, exhibiting magicians, dazzling serialists, spectacular jugglers, flying phantoms and a wild animal act of highly trained Tigers, kept the throng spellbound through the tensity of one of the great gridiron performances of all time. These superb feats of magic, skill, speed and power all entered into this presentation of football at its best — a truly colossal production."

The coaching staff of Frank Howard, Bob Jones, Joe Davis and Jess Neely led Clemson to its first bowl game 50 years ago.

Clemson scored two touchdowns and Wake Forest one in a span of about 10 minutes in the second quarter as Tiger-Deacon-Tiger scored. Clemson added another score in the final stanza. Latimer said: "The nerve-racked fans, slow to leave the field, had seen the Tigers triumphant in one of the greatest shows the gridiron could possibly offer." At one time in his story, Latimer said the Tigers gave the customers $50 worth of thrills for each $2 ticket.

Clemson went to Memphis and took care of Southwestern, 21-6, which is what the half-time score was, and then found itself behind 3-0 at halftime against Furman in Greenville, only to come back with a touchdown in each of the final two periods to win, 14-7. The Tigers also found themselves behind 3-0 against Boston College in the Cotton Bowl before Charlie Timmons scored a touchdown for a 6-3 halftime lead and the same final score.

Fritts was an All-Southern performer.

There were many stars on this team — McFadden, Blalock, Walter Cox, Timmons, George Fritts, Shad Bryant, Bob Sharpe, Joe Payne, Tom Moorer, Carl Black, Bill Hall, Chippy Maness, Aubrey Rion, Charlie Tisdale, Hugh Jameson, Bru Trexler — among them.

They suddenly found themselves — a group of players from small town environments, playing big time football. And Neely rewarded the team for its efforts by taking all 51 players to Dallas for the game. The band and nationally-famous Senior Platoon Drill Team also made the trip. The team rode the train to Dallas. Others went in a motorcade.

While in Dallas for the bowl game, talk was rampant that Neely would leave Clemson for the head coaching job at Rice. Bill Sullivan was the publicity man for Frank Leahy and he related to me several years ago that he was in the hotel room in Dallas when Neely told a small group that he would definitely take the Rice offer.

Frank Howard, who was Neely's line coach, spoke up and said: "Well, I'm not going with you." And according to Sullivan, Neely said: "I hadn't planned to ask you."

When we confronted Howard with this, he denied it and said that J.C. Littlejohn, Clemson business manager, had promised him the Clemson head coaching job if Neely left. We prefer to believe the Sullivan version. Sullivan, incidentally, is the same Sullivan who, up until two years ago, owned the New England Patriots and Sullivan Stadium at Foxboro, Mass.

Regardless, Howard's tenure at Clemson was a history-making 30 years, Neely stayed at Rice 27 years and each man enjoyed individual and collective successes.

But for that 1939 team that played in Clemson's first bowl game nearly 50 years ago, today's reunion will be one where every down of that season could probably be re-played without a miss. The players, in their minds, will be better today than they were 50 years ago, tackles will be harder, runs will be longer, pass receptions will be more spectacular and punt and kickoff returns will be more dashing.

In all probability, the first liar won't have a chance. But what difference does that make? The memories are there to be recalled, good, bad or otherwise.

This 1939 team being honored and recognized today did something no other Clemson team will ever match ... it played in and won the school's first post-season bowl game. Fourteen other teams have followed suit, but being the first in anything is always something special.

Gentlemen, to you, just a plain ole Clemson thanks.

Shad Bryant still holds the Clemson career punt return record.
